IN MEMORIAM

RALPH H. McINTOSH

DAVID B. WYGANT

After his graduation from high school, Mr. McIntosh began to teach in elementary school. He spent his entire teaching career, excluding the years he taught in Parkersburg High School, in Boone County, West Virginia. There he served as principal of Whitesville Junior High School and Seth High School. He was the athletic coach at Whitesville and assistant coach at Seth.

He did undergraduate and graduate work at night and during the summer at Fairmont State College, where he obtained his A. B. degree. He obtained his M. A. degree at the University of Kentucky.

In 1951 he came to Parkersburg High School, where he taught Business Mathematics and sponsored the Penmanship Club. He was a conscientious, hard-working teacher, who believed in strict discipline, yet had a pleasing sense of humor. Students who really came to know him liked him very much. He represented the type of teacher we can least afford to lose.

Mr. Wygant was born in Buffalo, New York, but grew up in Michigan, where he went to school. After graduating from a preparatory academy, he entered Princeton University, where he majored in English.

After graduation from Princeton and after completing two enlistments in the United States Navy, he worked with several large businesses as office and personnel manager.

When he left the Navy in 1953, his rating was Lieutenant Commander.

In the fall of 1963 he came to Parkersburg High School to begin his teaching career. According to Mrs. Wygant he had always wanted to teach, and during this brief experience as a teacher of junior English, he found he "loved teaching and his students." Both students and faculty had become fond of Mr. Wygant during the few months he was with us.

All feel a great loss in the death of these two men who were devoting their time to the youth of the county.

Retiring Teachers

Miss Ethel Musgrave

Miss Carolyn Townsend

Mr. Harvey Young

Mrs. Isabel Wilson

Mrs. Alberta Batson

Mrs. Irene Droppleman

It is with regret that we announce the retirement of six of our devoted teachers. It is especially regrettable because they are our friends and have been dedicated to the well-being of their students and the school.

MISS ETHEL MUSGRAVE, who is a Parkersburg High School and Marietta College graduate, began her teaching career here in 1920. Like many other teachers, she has taught a variety of subjects—mathematics, Latin, speech, United States History, and English—but for a number of years she taught only English. In 1946 she became Dean of Girls, a position she has filled continuously since, and at the same time has had charge of the Attendance Office. For several years she has sponsored the Student Council, but prior to that, at various times, she sponsored the junior and senior classes, and Y-Teens. Without a break in her teaching, she was able to sandwich in an M. A. degree from the University of Michigan.

MISS CAROLYN TOWNSEND, also a graduate of our school, came back to Parkersburg High School in 1920 after graduating from Wilson College. Later she secured her M. A. degree from Columbia University. For a time she taught English; but her chief teaching field has been social studies, primarily United States History, which she has taught for a number of years. Among the clubs she has sponsored are Checkers, Chess, Emily Post, and Sophomore Dramatics.

MR. HARVEY YOUNG was born and grew up in Hartford, Wisconsin, where he graduated from high school. After graduation from Stout Institute, he came to Parkersburg High School in 1924, where he first taught geometry, mechanical drawing, and sheet metal classes. In 1938 when the Vocational Trades Division of the school was established, he became the instructor in Vocational Automobile Mechanics, the position he has continued to hold.

MRS. ISABEL WILSON, a graduate of Parkersburg High School, with a B. S. degree from Ohio University and an M. A., from Columbia University, taught art for two years at State Teachers' College, Danbury, Connecticut. Later she taught summer courses at Salem College and Shepherd College, both in West Virginia. In 1936 she returned to Parkersburg to teach art. She has sponsored art clubs, and the Stage Crew and Club. In 1945 she established the T-T Art Club, an honorary organization into which talented art students are invited. With the aid of the Stage Crew and T-T Art Club, Mrs. Wilson has through the years created the delightful and effective backgrounds and settings for the dramatic and musical productions given on our stage.

MRS. ALBERTA BATSON, a native of Salem, West Virginia, and a graduate of Salem High School and Salem College, taught English, and sometimes music, in four schools before coming to Parkersburg—Grant District High School, Maury High School, Pullman High School, and Washington Irving High School. Since coming to our school in 1941, she has taught only English, but has taught it in all grades.

MRS. IRENE DROPPLEMAN, who graduated from Tunnelton High School, Fairmont State Teachers' College, and West Virginia University, has had a variety of teaching experience. In Morgantown she worked with both the Dalton Plan and the Platoon System. In 1946 she came to Emerson School, Parkersburg, where she taught sixth grade subjects. Since coming to Parkersburg High School in 1950, she has taught social studies, chiefly United States History. Among the clubs she has sponsored are Book, Dramatics, and Nursing.

We shall miss these teachers—their loyalty and helpfulness. We extend our gratitude to them with the hope that their future will be as rewarding as the years they have spent at Parkersburg High School.

Color Day

Color Day to the seniors is second in excitement only to graduation. This day of days, the members of the senior class wear their chosen colors, fly the senior flag from the north flagpole, and are entertained with the Color Day assembly. In the evening follows the Color Day party, a gala event unexcelled in class spirit.

Color Day, February 13, 1964, dawned cold and wet. Snow and rain fell, swirling in the wind, but the high-riding enthusiasm of the participants couldn't be dampened. At 8:30 that morning, all the seniors gathered around the flagpole, where Bob Mahaffey, class president, and Miss "B," class sponsor, raised the senior flag while Sandra Richards led the class in the class song, which she had composed. Then, they went to their homerooms to receive their colors—mint green and ivory ribbons—to wear all day and evening. Although morning classes proceeded normally, there was a constant undertone of tense expectation as seniors awaited fourth period and the Color Day assembly.

On stage impersonations of the faculty and administration produced some amazing and hilarious moments. As the program began, Mr. Mackey was portrayed by Steve Rader; Miss Musgrave, by Jane Smith; Mr. McDowell, by Dan Hall; Mr. Johnston, by Rod Beaudette; Mrs. Johnston, by Jody Deem; Dan Hall, by Speedy Wheeler. There was also some surprise when the "Beatles" appeared to thrill students and frighten innocent bystanders.

The Color Day party was a smashing success. Over eight hundred and thirty seniors turned out through the rain and snow for dancing to the music of the Royaltones, at the National Guard Armory. The decorations followed the Valentine theme, but senior colors replaced the traditional red and white. The flag was the center around which the decorations were built. The motto was written on one wall. On another was a huge heart, in the center of which was a portrait of Miss Boggess.

Cokes and cookies were served throughout the evening.

During intermission Lillian Sams and Diana DeRose sang folk music.

The Student Council, comprised of the eighty-five home room presidents, helps direct student activities. At least one general meeting is held each month.

A member of the National and State Associations of Student Councils, the organization sent representatives to a meeting of the State Association held at Jackson's Mill, October 6-8. The student body officers and Marja-Liisa Kakkuri, this year's foreign exchange student, were accompanied by Miss Musgrave, the adviser.

Of special importance to the smooth functioning of the Student Council was the recent passage of amendments to the constitution. These were passed by a two-thirds approval of the student body in a vote taken during summer school and last fall in social studies classes. The amendments changed the method of amending the constitution, provided for an executive committee, and reduced the number of general council meetings.

The executive committee consists of fifteen members: the three officers of the student body; the sophomore, junior, and senior class presidents; and three representatives at large from each class. This committee has enabled the organization to function more effectively.

The Council engaged in three money-making projects to raise funds to defray convention expenses and to contribute to the American Field Service for our foreign exchange students.

The paperback books, displayed attractively, in Miss Musgrave's office, offer students an opportunity to secure books they want and at the same time help fill the Council's coffers. Proceeds from the Fifth Quarter Dance, held after the last home football game, and another dance in the spring were substantial.

The new money making project this year, which turned out to be very popular, was the sale of plasticized red and white book covers which proudly bore the profile of the Big Red Indian on one side and a view of the school on the other.

The Student Council sponsors the American Field Service program, including Americans Abroad and Exchange Student Programs. It also sends a delegation to the High School Council of the American Red Cross.

Communications were carried on with the councils of other high schools through football and basketball games, letters, and state and district student council meetings. Our officers were invited to dinner by the student body officers of Stonewall Jackson High School before their homecoming game with Parkersburg.

The last duty of this year's Student Council was the conducting of student body elections, which were held in May.

The officers were Daniel Hall, president; Robert Allman, vice-president; Susan Gilmore, secretary-treasurer.

Foreign Exchange Students

This year our foreign exchange student, Marja-Liisa Kakkuri, a native of Finland, resided with the family of Dr. John Gile. Her American sister was Anita Gile, a senior. Marja engaged in many activities, including membership in the Orchestra and the traveling Symphonette, for which she played both the trumpet and piano; the Girls' Athletic Association; and the Entre Nous Book Club.

When requested to make a statement about the year here, she replied:

"I just love American food—also people. Everybody is very friendly. Even the teachers, though they are hard.

"Football games were so much fun after the first game. At first it seemed as if the boys just tried to kill each other.

"I have never worked as hard as in P. H. S., but maybe I learned something, too. Now I at least know a little more about America and Americans besides that 'everybody has a car.'"

Mary Jo Steffee was a summer exchange student to Italy, where she did not attend school, but did become acquainted with her Italian family and their customs.

Thespian Troupe 264 has observed its silver anniversary this year. In acknowledgment of this event and the 400th birthday anniversary of the greatest of all playwrights, William E. Shakespeare, members thought it appropriate to celebrate the two occasions by giving for their annual performance a Shakespearean play. For this they chose one of the Bard's most popular comedies, "As You Like It." The plot deals with mistaken identity, and love among the ruling classes and the simple rural folk in the legendary Forest of Arden. The play was presented to a most appreciative student audience in a matinee performance on December 12. A public performance was given the evening of December 13.

During their quarter of a century of existence, the Thespians have had four sponsors—Miss Wanda Mitchell, Mr. William E. Stephens, Miss Edith Humphrey, and, currently, Mrs. Grace-Marie Merrill. Through the years outstanding performances have been given under the direction of these devoted teachers.

Since 1946, sixteen awards have been presented to members of Troupe 264 at the annual West Virginia State High School Drama Festival, and the names of these students are listed on the national Thespian Honor Roll. For this year's Regional Drama Festival and the Glenville L-K Drama Festival, the Thespians chose "Impromptu," a one-act play by Tad Mosel.

The purpose of the national Thespian organization is "to promote the high ideals of the dramatic arts." Thespian members are students distinguished in this field. To become a Thespian it is necessary to have made at least three public appearances and to present a prepared monologue and an impromptu pantomime before the members of the organization. The new active and honorary members are announced each year during the intermission of the Senior Play.

Weekly meetings open with the Thespian pledge, and, after a short business session, the program is turned over to the chairmen of the day. These two plan monologues, impromptu pantomimes, or games based upon current Broadway plays.

The "Parhischan" Staff consists of nine seniors who were selected from those students who applied last spring for a place on the staff. The staff meets every day during fourth and fifth period, and at rush times, on week-ends. Though each member has a particular job he must perform, the entire group must work like a team since there are many parts of a yearbook that require the help of all.

This year for the first time the staff ordered clear plastic covers which will serve to protect the back of the book. If these prove satisfactory, it is probable that next year's book will have this protection, too.

In the spring the staff visited Lawhead Press in Athens, Ohio, where the "Parhischan" is printed. Seeing the big presses operating and the men and women working on different parts of printing and assembling books was a worth while experience.

The "Parhischan" Agents are the home room representatives who are responsible for taking subscriptions in their home rooms on four Mondays in November and December. When the book is ready for distribution, the agents deliver them to those who ordered them. Without the assistance of the agents this part of the annual work would be difficult to accomplish.

Checkers Club 307

Although checkers is easy to play as far as physical exertion goes, the members of the club found that much thought and concentration are needed to become experts. Throughout the first part of the year each member was teamed against each other member. In this manner eliminations were carried out to discover the best of them all. Marvin Foggin won this distinction and was crowned champion. Later in the year the Intracub Checkers Tournament was held to determine the 1964 Checkers Champion of P.H.S. Tom Baling and Charles Brown were the student sponsors.

Travel Club 601 visited many exciting places throughout the world during its Thursday afternoon meetings. These effortless trips were taken by means of slide and movie projectors, and travel folders and brochures. Such journeys made the members eager to travel later in person. Guests who visited the club were foreign exchange students: Mary Jo Steffee, who last summer lived with a family in Italy; Maureen Fetter, who toured France; and Marja-Lissa Kakkuri, our AFS student this year, who told about her country, Finland. The officers were Donna Kimes, president; Judy Hofmann, secretary; Dave Woolard, treasurer.

Hunting and Fishing Club

The Hunting and Fishing Club enjoyed a variety of activities devoted to their favorite sports. Among these were instruction and work periods. From some movies they learned about the conservation of game. Through others they were introduced to different techniques to be used in hunting and fishing. During work periods they made artificial lures. The officers were Mike Young, president; John Marsh, vice-president; John Moellendick, secretary-treasurer.

According to Mr. Little, the purpose of the Personal Bookkeeping Club is "to teach family management" and budgeting. The club is open to all students interested in accounting, but it is preferred that members have some previous knowledge of the subject. Illustrating with a set of family practice budgets, Mr. Little explained the general principles to the members, who then used similar sets to learn budgeting for themselves. Officers were Austin Matthews, president; Linda Sams, secretary-treasurer.

The purpose of the Waitman Barbe Chapter of the Future Teachers of America is to provide young people with specific information about opportunities in the various fields of education, to stress the importance of teachers in our democratic way of life, and to encourage them to cultivate in themselves the qualities of a successful teacher. In order to be eligible for membership a student must have at least a "B" average and plan to make a career in education.

At the beginning of the year, a program committee was elected which arranged many interesting helpful meetings. Among the guest speakers were Keith Smith, a student at Glenville State College, who told about the experiences of a student teacher; Christine Grant, a junior at Parkersburg Catholic High School, who presented a program concerning the rewards in teaching mentally retarded children; and Mary Jo Steffee and Maureen Fetter, who told of their experiences as students abroad last summer.

As a special project for National Education Week, the members distributed apples to each teacher in the high school to show their appreciation of the faculty. They also volunteered their services as ushers at the Regional Teachers' Convention held here October 17 and 18.

Last fall the club sent its officers to the State F.T.A. Conference held at Jackson's Mill, where for the first time, they campaigned for one of their members for a state office. Although their candidate was not elected, they felt the experience was valuable.

In the spring, the traditional annual banquet was held for graduating members. Officers were Gail Schneider, president; Susan Cox, vice-president; Judy Michaels, secretary; Anita Gile, treasurer.

ABSENT: Frank Kesterson.

The members of the College Club became acquainted with various colleges by examining college bulletins. After studying the catalogues, they discussed the advantages and disadvantages of each college, including the entrance requirements.

At some meetings they had speakers from nearby colleges who answered their questions. Some periods were used as work sessions. On these days the members did exercises designed to help them when they enter college.

One of these was the study of words, or terminology, encountered in registration and meetings with advisers. Mrs. Holbert prepared a list of these terms for members to learn to define and spell.

This and the other activities of the club were aimed at familiarizing prospective college students with college procedures.

The officers were Sue Varner, president; Vicki Phillips, vice-president; Carolyn Perry, secretary-treasurer.

One of the outstanding groups of Parkersburg High School is the A Cappella Choir, which is chosen from a large group of vocal students who apply for membership.

The members are kept busy throughout the year learning new songs and reviewing others in preparation for their many programs.

For their first appearance the Choir members took part in the Annual P. H. S. Revue—"Hoot 'n' Antics," which was given in November by students in the several music groups of the Music Department.

Their next appearance was made at the Thanksgiving Assembly, but the highlight of the year was the Christmas Concerts given for the public and for the assemblies of the student body.

For these programs they sang "O Magnum Mysterium," (Glorious Mystery Sublime), "Hodie Christmas Matus Est," "How Great Are Thy Wonders," "All My Heart This Night Rejoices," (Double Echo Quartet), "The Three Kings," "Now Sing

"We All This Day," "Jingle Bells," "A Merry Christmas," "Drummer Boy," "The Hallelujah Chorus," and "O Come Emmanuel." During the program the audience joined in a carol sing.

The beauty of the music was enhanced by the magnificent stage setting created by the Stage Crew and the T-T Art Club. It made a perfect background for the story of the program, "The Miracle of the Madonna."

After the first of the new year, tryouts for All-State Chorus were held, and the finalists were announced shortly afterward. These fortunate singers will join other student vocalist at a state meeting of teachers of music in the spring.

After the Easter assemblies and the Music Festival, the Choir gave its annual Spring Concert for the public.

This year the group made a trip to Pittsburgh, where they enjoyed a boat trip and a tour of several historical spots and points of interest.

To end the year the Choir sang for the Senior Class Sermon and for Commencement.

Each Thursday, the members of Travel Club 120 take an imaginary trip, by means of travel movies, slides, and talks by occasional speakers.

Since 1963 was our Centennial Year, some members of the club planned a complete tour of West Virginia as they would like to take it. To do this they wrote to various state parks and tourist agencies for pamphlets and booklets. Using the information gained from these, they charted the tour.

Members also made reports on trips they had made or wished to make some time in the future.

Officers were Regina Burdette, president; James Van Matre, vice-president; and Susan Headland secretary.

ROW ONE: Richard Adams, Bill Wheeler, Peter Ferry, Jodelle Deem, Aloise Cochran. ROW TWO: Robert Allman, Susan Gilman, Merle Irvin, Linda Pepper, John Dudley, Miss Boggess.

With a membership of only ten students, Masque and Gavel sponsors the Junior and Senior West Speech Contests, directs the Regional Forensic Contest, and presents panel discussions on life at P.H.S. before all area ninth grade students. These ten also present a comedy for both junior and senior high school audiences; this year, "Love Hits Wilbur." In the spring new members are tapped into the society on Tap Day on the basis of speech excellence and participation.

Officers are Linda Pepper, president; William Wheeler, vice-president; and Susan Gilmore, secretary-treasurer.

Sewing, engaging in other types of handicraft, and chatting were favorite diversions of the girls in room 134 on Thursdays during fourth period, when each girl worked on the object she was currently making. Whenever questions arose as to the right stitch, the proper color, or some other such decision, the girls consulted Mrs. Guinn, their adviser. Some of the handwork the girls made for gifts, but other things they made for personal use. Among these were embroidered linens and clothing for dolls.

Thus the purpose of the club — to enjoy doing useful things — was fulfilled.

The officers were Jane Anderson, president; and Jane Sams, secretary-treasurer.

T-T Art Club

ROW ONE: Sonja Deem, Diana Williams, Carolyn Trout, Sandra Corbin, Becky Hutzler. ROW TWO: Mrs. Wilson, Anne Fly, Donna Woodrum, Jeanne Sheff, Susan Blondin, Janis Archer, Ellen Guinn, Judy Moss.

T-T Art Club, an honorary organization of juniors and seniors, this year created settings for the Thespian play, the P.H.S. Revue, the Christmas program, and the Sports Carnival. When no club project was underway, each member engaged in some personal undertaking, under the direction of Mrs. Wilson. It is hoped that activity in the club will encourage students to continue practicing some form of art after graduation and to contribute time and talent to school and community improvement.

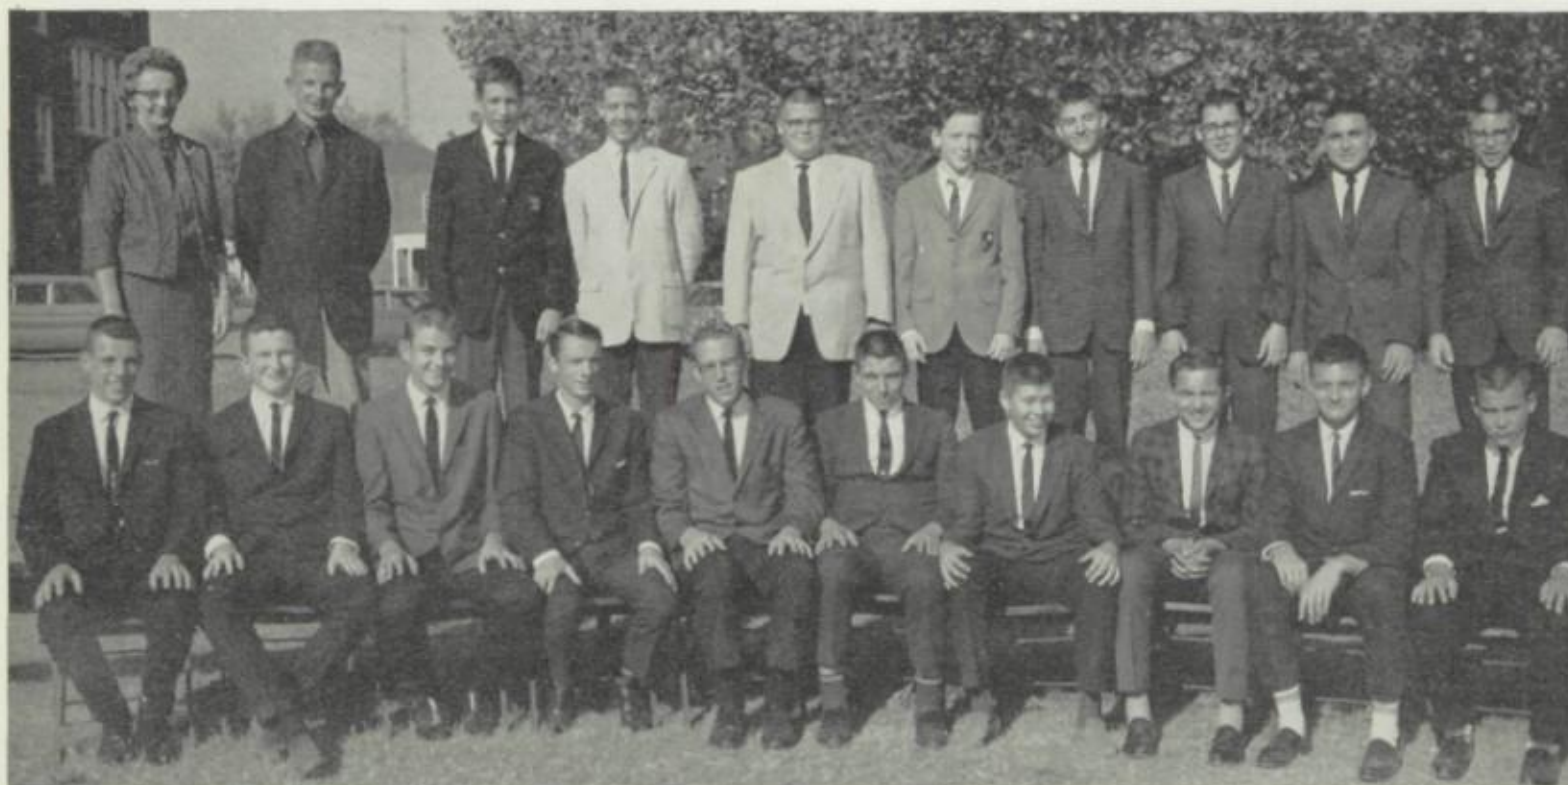

The officers were Sonja Deem, president; and Diana Williams, secretary.

Coin and Stamp Club

The Coin and Stamp Club was organized to encourage an interest in coin and stamp collecting. Some club periods were devoted to trading and auctioning; others, to hearing addresses by authorities on various phases of coin and stamp collecting. The group made a trip to a local bank and to the downtown post office, where they discovered how the establishments operated. A display of coins and stamps was planned for the other clubs near the end of the year. Sectional displays were planned for the Exhibit Case. The officers were Bob Brownfield, president; Gary Battin, vice president; Bob Hinkle, secretary; and Bob Cameron, treasurer.

"Rifle safety" is the motto of the Rifle Club as stressed in the National Rifle Association rules. The boys studied different safety methods for handling shotguns, semi-automatics and automatic rifles. They planned outings to put into use what they had learned. Some days they met with the Hunting and Fishing Club to see movies on hunting. The officers were John Vanfossen, president; Larry Lamm, vice-president; Stephen Spencer, secretary-treasurer.

Under the direction of the three home economics teachers, each of the girls who was a home economics or nursery assistant had many duties to perform. One of the most enjoyable was that of caring for the nursery school children, four-year-olds in the morning and five-year-olds in the afternoon. The girls helped prepare equipment for class work, supervised some handwork, and cleaned up after finger-painting. Another of their tasks was to lead the children in singing and in rhythm band performance. These assistants are students of home economics.

The Boy Physical Education Assistants help in the functioning of their part of the Physical Education Department.

They do a variety of jobs. Some take attendance by handing each boy an attendance tag to be hung in his space on the attendance board. Then, after the class begins, the assistants mark the absentees according to the vacant spots on the board. The same process is used in checking to determine who have taken showers and who have not.

These assistants help with intramurals. During intramural football season, some boys maintain the first down markers, some keep the score, and others officiate. In basketball season there are two referees who keep the game under control. One boy keeps the score for all to see, and two keep individual team scores.

Other duties include distributing equipment, demonstrating various sports, and helping to give tests.

To become a Physical Education Assistant a boy must maintain a "C" average and must have one period as well as the home room period open.

Composed of sophomore boys, Meistersingers gives its members the opportunity to learn to sing the good music that is written for male voices. There are no formal tryouts. The only requirement is that the boys be interested in singing and willing to contribute something of themselves to the group.

The Meistersingers sang with the Vivace Glee Club in the Music Festival, presented an assembly in the spring, and participated with the Wood County Boys' Chorus in three programs — one at the Regional Teachers' Meeting in the fall, one for the Brotherhood Banquet, and another for a county teachers' meeting in the spring.

Among the songs in their repertoire are "In God Is My Salvation," by Henry Pfohe; "For Music," by Robert Franz; "Years of Decision," arranged by Howard E. Akers; "Rolling Hills," by Don Gustafson; "This Land Is Your Land," by Woody Guthrie; "Home, Boys, Home," arranged by Harry Geller; "Seventy-Six Trombones," by Meredith Wilson; "My Bonnie Lassie," by Bennett, Tepper, McClurg; "Marching to Pretoria," by Josef Marais.

One of the provisions of the constitution of the Junior Girls' Sports Club is "To develop good sportsmanship, as a club and as individuals." In all their activities the girls endeavor to do this. To remain a member each girl must maintain a scholarship average of "C" or above.

Almost every Thursday this club was matched against the Girls' Athletic Association or the Sophomore Girls' Sports Club in either volleyball or basketball competition.

Several Monday evenings during the first part of the year a team from the club went to the City Park pavilion to engage in basketball games that were sponsored by the Wood County Recreation Commission. The junior girls' team was sponsored by Burton's Hardware.

For each activity a girl engaged in, she was given points. At the end of the year an award was presented to the member who had earned the greatest number.

For their service project this year the girls collected toys which they gave to the children of a needy family for Christmas.

The officers were Becky Gregg, president; Sherry Johnson, vice-president; Mary Dollman, secretary-treasurer; Sheila Wooddell and Joyce Harper, team captains.

Art Club 204

Sponsored by Mrs. Sinnett, this club of commercial art students pooled their talents to do a great deal of decorating and advertising for school functions. For the Fifth Quarter Dance, they made a huge replica of our "Boost the Big Reds" button; for decorations for the football banquet, "grew" tiny red roses; and for National Education Week, made displays. Other projects included lettering certificates and undertaking individual art work such as oil painting.

The officers were Dave Deem, president; Diana DeRose, vice-president; Pam Childers, secretary; and Susan Biram, treasurer.

Sophomore Speech Club 132 was composed of girls interested in improving their speaking habits. Through practice, and constructive criticism of their speech, they attempted to acquire poise in public speaking. Their programs included "radio shows," impromptu speeches, and the practice of conversational speaking. They found that they would have to learn to project their voices; they talked too softly.

The officers were Veronica Kefalos, president; Melanie DeLancey, vice-president; Margie Magnani, secretary; and Vickie Corbitt, treasurer.

Knitting Club 131

Knitting Club 131 is composed of girls who are interested in knitting as a useful and practical art. Many of the members were taught to knit by the sponsor, Miss Weir. Others were already able to knit. Each girl was to work on at least one project throughout the year. During club meetings they had an opportunity to get help on their individual projects. Many became accomplished knitters and knitted sweaters for themselves. The officers were Carol Young, president; and Ginger Massey, secretary-treasurer.

Experience in the Movie Operators' Club prepares the members to offer a valuable service to the school. During club periods members learn to thread and splice film, and to operate the slide projectors and motion picture equipment. After being a member for one year the boys are qualified to show films in the auditorium and in classrooms. Mr. Bailey, the sponsor, plans to take the boys on a visit to one of the local motion picture theaters, where they will see how commercial movies are projected.

The nursing profession is one of dignity, which many girls in our school are interested in pursuing as a career.

The Junior Future Nurses' Club, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Droppleman, learned the basic techniques of nursing. Each week a different phase of nursing was presented by discussion or demonstration.

Several times during the year the members of the club visited hospitals. Led by a nurse or a group of nurses, they toured the hospitals and viewed the special medical facilities housed there. Often they toured a part of the school of nursing of the hospital visited, and on these occasions were served lunch.

At various times throughout the year, when the meetings were held at school, nurses from the local hospitals served as guest speakers and provided special material for discussion.

Student nurses also visited the meetings, explaining their motives for wanting to become nurses, telling of some of their learning experiences, and describing the nature of the courses which are taken after entering schools of nursing.

Frequently this club met with the Senior Future Nurses' Club. Generally these meetings consisted of discussion on a designated topic related to nursing and of interest to both clubs.

Before Christmas, the student nurses of one of the local hospitals entertained the members of the club with a tea and a tour of their school of nursing.

The purpose of the club is to try to stimulate the interest of all girls in nursing and to give a preview of the life in nursing school. The officers were Shirley Hill, president; and Susan Lee, secretary-treasurer.

The main purpose of Mrs. Morris's typewriting club was to give the members an opportunity to devote more time to practice. Though Mrs. Morris planned each club period so that students could enjoy special work with the typewriter, she permitted those who wanted to type their assignments to do so.

The special work consisted of typing booklets of poems and other compositions as well as pictures, some of the latter being very complicated works of art. Sometimes the entire group typed to music and at other times they typed drills. The officers were Don McNemar, president; and Sharon Bibbee, secretary.

News Bureau, open only to journalism students, is a continuation of the study of journalism providing information not normally learned in class. The Bureau prepares stories about school activities for the Parkersburg newspapers and the area radio and television stations. Their visits to printing plants and photography shops gave them further insight into the field of communications. They visited the junior high schools, where they talked to the newspaper staffs and clubs, inviting them, in turn, to visit the P.H.S. Journalism Department.

The officers were Dianne Melrose, president; Haven Stevens, vice-president; Saundra Boyce, secretary-treasurer.

To be able to entertain graciously is important to successful living. In the Hostess Club girls received instruction in planning parties. For this activity, they divided into groups of four or five and each girl reported to the club a different phase of the plan of her group.

Other programs included demonstrations of cake decorating, flower arrangement, and jewelry-store selection of china and silver.

At Christmas the girls made favors and Christmas gifts, which were distributed at a local hospital.

The officers were Connie Chancellor, president; Barbara Smith, vice-president; Shelia Parsons, secretary-treasurer.

Club 140

To be able to take 140 words a minute in shorthand and to type at the rate of 70 words a minute is the chief goal of the girls in Club 140. This new club, sponsored by Mrs. Janet Brown, was organized to offer girls with ability — with an "A" or a "B" average in Stenography I — an opportunity to gain greater speed and accuracy. Throughout the year the girls worked on programs for various organizations, and for the month of May planned a banquet for themselves.

The officers were Linda Davis, president; Joyce Eaton, vice-president; Yvonne Miller, secretary-treasurer.

The ABC (D.E.C.A.) is a program which operates in connection with the Distributive Education classes to develop leaders of tomorrow in marketing and distribution. The students prepare projects which are entered in state-wide competition in five contest divisions. These are advertising, job interview, merchandise presentation, and sales demonstration.

The diamond-shaped emblem of the organization encloses a wrapped package with rays of sunshine streaming from the package. The four points of the design represent leadership development, vocational (or occupational) understanding, civic consciousness, and social intelligence. The package symbolizes the close co-operation of student, teacher, parent, and merchant in assisting students of Distributive Education to acquire a well-rounded education.

The ultimate aim of this national youth organization is to develop respect for education in business, which will contribute to vocational competence. The members believe that their vocations in distribution play an important part in the present and future growth of our country. They consider it a privilege to receive training in this field. All these factors are embodied in the creed of ABC (D.E.C.A.).

The officers were Mike Martin, president; Lotie McCartney, vice-president; Judy Wyatt, secretary; Dianne Hughes, treasurer.

Junior Orchesis is an honorary modern dance club new to Parkersburg High School this year. "Orchesis" is a Greek word meaning "the dance." The purpose of the organization is to develop interest in dance and to learn new dance techniques. Members must maintain at least a "C" average to remain in the club.

Throughout the year the organization was very active. For a meeting of the West Virginia Association of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation, Junior Orchesis performed an abstract array of the Seven Wonders of the World. Led by Mrs. Berolatti, the girls made up the choreography to be used in rhythmic gymnastics for the Sports Carnival.

The group also performed an original dance for the Sports Carnival, depicting the serenity of the sea, and drums. Five girls represented the club in the P.H.S. Revue—"Hoot'n'antics." They portrayed matadors to the music of "El Cid." The club took part in the Color Day Show as well as the "Journal" Talent Show.

The officers were Linda Meadows, president; Lora Holman, vice-president; Janis Archer, secretary; Kay Huff, treasurer; Betty Wilder and Phyllis Huff, junior and sophomore cabinet members, respectively.

There are six meetings of the club during the year, at which guest speakers review books that the members have read and are prepared to discuss.

Senior Future Nurses' Club

To stimulate an interest in health education and the programs available is the purpose of this club. Sponsored by Mrs. Irene Newton, the girls observed different phases of nursing by visiting both hospitals and their nursing schools. A panel of nurses from each hospital appeared before the club to talk about the profession and to answer questions.

A survey was made of schools of nursing and colleges offering nursing degrees, and the possibility of practical nursing as a career was explored. Visits were made to the Wood County Health Department and the Rehabilitation Center. Officers were Patricia Cunningham, president; Bliss Barnhouse, secretary; Harriet Gentry, treasurer.

club members were free to select those that appealed to them. Although book reports were optional, complete reading records were kept.

Officers were Malcolm Greathouse, president; Dana Whited, vice-president; Larry Fought, secretary-treasurer.

These sophomore, junior, and senior boys and

The main objective of the Big Red Football Club is to teach sportsmanship and teamwork. The club is made up of the members of the Big Red Football squad. During their club periods the boys watched movies which showed the correct methods of passing, tackling, blocking, and performing other football maneuvers.

For the winter the club had an excellent program which featured exercises that helped them build up and strengthen the muscles of the arms, shoulders, and legs.

Early in the spring they began track practice, at which time the results of the winter program were evident. They also watched movies of previous track meets, and discussed forthcoming meets.

Through their various activities they learned that co-operation is important in any game.

The aim of this dramatics club was to provide sophomores with an introduction to acting. The student sponsors, Susan Harrah and Cynthia Sherwood, were hopeful that this experience would encourage the members to take a course in dramatics so that they could try out for Thespians.

The members gained much valuable experience by working with charades, dramatic drills, pantomimes, and improvisations. To help improve their acting, constructive criticism was offered by the other club members, the student sponsors, and the adviser.

Toward the end of the year, a general survey was made of the technical work required for each production in the theater. This included lighting, settings, properties, make-up, and directing.

The play "Spring Fever," by Ester E. Olson, was selected to be presented for the other dramatics clubs.

The officers were Gypsy Lyons, president; Melody Meredith, secretary; and Jessica Manion, treasurer.

Members visited the junior high schools they formerly attended, and some of the grade schools in this area, giving demonstrations of their skills, usually accompanying the Boys' Gymnastics Club. These meetings were MC'd by Mr. F. G. Clark. The two organizations also entertained at P.T.A. meetings.

This year, for the first time, members who qualified received emblems for their club work. These are like the letters that members of the various sports teams earn, and were presented to the girls by Mr. Clark. To earn an emblem girls had to fulfill the following requirements: have two years' membership in the club and perfect attendance, except when excused; pay yearly dues; and participate in required demonstrations. Team captains were Becky McMullin and Connie Fogle.

The Girls' Gymnastics Club is designed for all girls who are interested in acquiring poise, grace, and co-ordination. "It is open to those who represent the overflow from other sports clubs," according to Mrs. Cross, the sponsor.

In their club meetings, which were held each Monday during fourth period and each Tuesday after school, the girls took part in many forms of gymnastic activities. The program for beginners consisted of tumbling and stunts, rhythmic exercises consisting of the backward and forward roll, the headstand, handstand, crabwalk, and cartwheel. Free exercise, a form of precise gymnastic dancing, was part of the program for advanced members; all members participated in pyramid building, and practiced on the balance beam and the trampoline.

The Future Farmers of America, boys taking vocational agriculture, continue their studies in club meeting.

To increase their knowledge and indulge their interests, they take part in a wide range of projects which vary with the seasons. Included among these are gardening, raising animals, and making field trips. The crop enterprises consist of raising products such as corn, alfalfa, or beans. The student devotes all his attention to producing this one crop, attempting to perfect his procedures. Others raise animals of their choice and, or, convenience. These include chickens, beef cattle, dairy cows, rabbits, and sheep. Field trips are made to animal sales, agricultural demonstrations, conventions, and fairs.

The Parkersburg Chapter of Future Farmers of America is a member of the national organization that was chartered by Congress in 1928. The motto of the club is "Learning to Do; Doing to Learn; Earning to Live; Living to Serve." Club colors, which are displayed in the attractive jackets of the members, are corn gold and national blue.

Club officers are chosen each spring from among the second and third year members. New members are elected to be assistant officers. They learn their duties by observing the regular officers. The club reporter corresponds with reporters of other clubs in the organization and reviews his own club's activities in the W.Va.F.F.A. News.

Officers were Harry Conley, president; Claude Alkire, vice-president; Carl Straight, secretary; Kenneth McCale, treasurer; Robert Workman, sentinel; Donnie Harris, parliamentarian; Dexter Graham, reporter.

At the beginning of the year the girls in the Teen-Age Problems Club divided into five committees. Each committee was to study questions concerning one of the following topics: boy-girl relations, teacher-student relations, parent-child relations, personal appearance, and personality problems.

An planned program was presented each week by one of the committees. This was usually given in the form of a panel discussion; however, other methods of presentation were used when the committees considered them more effective for presenting a problem.

To help the members prepare their programs, reference books were placed at their disposal. Among these were "Your Best Foot Forward," by Stratton and Schleman; "The Seventeen Book of Young Living," by Haupt; "Twixt Twelve and Twenty," by Pat Boone; and "Choosing Your Course," by Frances Bruce Strain.

The officers were Valerie File, president; Loretta Lloyd, vice-president, Ricki Seaman, secretary-treasurer.

Junior-Senior Boys' Book Club

The purpose of the Junior-Senior Boys' Book Club was to help the members improve their reading comprehension. Each boy was required to read sixteen books and to keep a notebook in which he wrote a short review of each book he read. He was also required to make one oral report and one longer written report. Each week Mrs. Welch and the officers selected library books which they took to the meeting and from these the club members made their selections.

The officers were Charles Bock, president; and Richard Litton, secretary-treasurer.

Familiar to most students is the Attendance Office, better known perhaps as Miss Musgrave's Office, where each day's absences are recorded. Each period of the day different students work in this office — the girls collecting the blue slips in the main building and the boys collecting them in the outside buildings. Back in the office, they list the names of absentees on home room forms, and then record them on the permanent attendance cards of the absentees. These same students deliver pass slips, record tardy slips, and make out new cards for the locks.

Attendance Office Assistants

Spelling Club

To improve their spelling was the desire of these students. At their first meeting they were divided into two ability groups so that each student could work on his own level. Conducted like an informal class, the club studied syllables, accent, phonics, and words that sound alike. Each week they took a quiz, comprised of words commonly misspelled by high school students throughout the nation. Even though the work was concentrated, Miss Helmick and her student sponsors, Karen Alfred and Carolyn Patterson, tried to vary it from week to week.

The officers were Charlotte Kaufman, president; Linda Richards, vice-president; and Linda Bosley, secretary-treasurer.

Membership in the Rowing Club prepares the boys for service with the Rowing Crew in the spring. The club is made up of boys who are interested in our school's newest sport. During club period they discuss the techniques involved. Their basic training consists of running, push-ups, sit-ups, bicycling, and other muscle building exercises, especially those that increase the strength of the wrist and shoulder muscles.

The purpose of this organization is to provide a large number of girls the opportunity to learn good music which is especially arranged for girls' voices, and to perform it for the public. The group is composed of juniors and seniors; however, they meet in two sections—juniors on Monday and seniors on Friday.

Applicants for membership in Marcato must pass an audition test. However, second year members do not have to try out again.

participation in the Holy Week Services. This year for the Musical Festival they sang "Adoramus Te, Christe," by Palestrina, and "In These Delightful Groves," by Henry Purcell. They prepared special and appropriate music for the Holy Week Services, which were held in the auditorium each morning before classes.

A number of the members sang in the Music Department's presentation of "Oklahoma," the Broadway hit by Rodgers and Hammerstein, directed by Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Metz. According to Mrs. Wilson, the students and directors enjoyed every minute of this very singable musical comedy. It is certain that the audiences did, too.

Dramatics Club 133 took on a new look this year. Last year it was composed of sophomore girls; but this year, both sophomore and junior girls and boys comprise the membership. The club was organized for those students who are not taking a course in dramatics, but who like to do some work in this field.

The aim of the club is to encourage further interest and participation in dramatics. It is the belief of all concerned with the club that the goal was achieved.

Programs consisted of pantomimes, monologues, and certain phases of make-up, directed by Sue Black and John Swales, student sponsors. A session at the end of each program was devoted to a discussion of the selections presented, and possible improvements were suggested.

The officers were Beth Guinn, president; Denise Pittman, vice-president; Connie Weaver, secretary-treasurer.

ABSENT: Gary Riffle, Wilbur Kuhn, Alan Cramlet, Kenneth Chaffin, Lewis Byers, Douglas Burnside, Mr. Clarke.

Woodworking Club was initiated this year to give boys who are not in shop a chance to see how their peers work. At first, all worked on small, simple projects such as footstools and cutting boards. Progressing at his own rate, each boy took up harder projects as his skill increased. Since safety is a most important factor in the use of tools, the boys were generally restricted to the use of jigsaws, bandsaws, and sanders. The more complicated machines were left to the student sponsors, Joe Memel and Jeff Gainer, who had studied their use in class. Each boy was permitted to choose what he wanted to make, but was required to finish at least three projects.

"Bible" Club 212

ABSENT: Stephen Calhoun, Randy Dye, Larry Davis, James Smouse, Joyce Wilson.

Each meeting of "Bible" Club 212 was opened with the discussion of several questions submitted to Mr. Snider by the members themselves. These queries could concern any phase of religion and were designed to let each one present his point of view on the subject.

The aim of the club was to gain a better understanding of the "Bible." To accomplish this, each week a different book of the "Bible" was studied. Mr. Snider led the discussion, and in this way many different ideas were exchanged, thus broadening each member's outlook on the subject.

Several guest speakers appeared before the club. Among these were the Reverend James Moellendick, who explained the function of the local Union Mission and the Reverend Richard Placeway, of the Grace Brethren Church, whose subject was Lent. The officers of the club were Jeanie Metts, president; Paul States, vice-president; Patsy McVey, secretary; Joanna Deems, treasurer.

Stage Crew and Club

The Stage Crew was always ready to take care of any situation that occurred in their bailiwick. They were responsible for operating backstage equipment as well as doing other backstage duties. They were present at all rehearsals as well as the final productions. The Stage Manager is a senior who has been a member of the group for two years. This position, which carries heavy responsibilities, was given this year to senior Tim Righter. The Stage Club is made up of sophomore boys who learn how the stage operates by helping the members of the Crew.

Main Office Assistants

One of the busiest places in the school is the Main Office, where Mrs. McKain and her assistants are busily at work. The boys can be seen going cheerfully through the corridors taking packages and supplies to their destinations. At the same time the girls remain in the office to operate the switchboard, but they, too, sometimes run errands for Mr. Mackey and Mrs. McKain, taking pass slips and notices to students and teachers. Any efficient student with a "C" average or better is eligible to do this work.

ABSENT: Mary Shields, Doug Stephens, Larry Young.

Members of "Bible" Club 318 answered the roll by giving a "Bible" verse. Then after a prayer by one of the members, they sang several hymns. Following the opening exercises, the president assigned the program for the next meeting and took care of any business. As a rule, the member who was responsible for the program read the scripture for the day and the club discussed the text. Each member was required to have the program at least once during the year. A play was given at Thanksgiving, and special programs were prepared for Christmas and Easter.

The officers were Frena Rollyson, president; Jane Smith, secretary-treasurer.

Slide Rule Club

Fifteen students comprised the membership of the club in which Mr. Armstrong made clear the mysteries of the slide rule. As the students became more skillful, they learned new scales. Each week they were assigned problems which were designed to help them become more familiar with this shorthand method of mathematics. They found the slide rule a convenient tool for use in classwork and in preparing their homework assignments.

The officers were Mike Yunker, president; Virginia Ulch, secretary.

ROW ONE: Craig Ostrye, Michael Wade, Russell White, John Holding. ROW TWO: Virginia Ulch, Van Cook, Gordon Heckendorn, Susan Seveke. The goal of the members of Knitting Club 203 was, first of all, to learn the basic steps of knitting and purling, for the majority of the girls knew nothing about knitting when they joined the club. Those who already could knit, learned new stitches and helped the beginners. Their first projects were simple ones, scarves and socks. Their aim was to become adept enough at this new-found hobby to knit their own sweaters and other items for their wardrobes.

Without these able assistants, teachers would find it difficult to carry on as many class activities as they do.

Teachers generally select as their assistants students they have had in class, but this is not always true. The students devote their study or home room periods to this work. For this they earn activity credits.

The activities of the assistant vary according to the subject taught, but there are numerous chores which are common to all classes. Such jobs include making seating charts, marking the roll each day, checking and returning papers, and running errands. There are also papers to be typed, notes to be delivered, and students to be hunted.

In some cases, there are special activities. For instance, chemistry assistants often clean the lab equipment and "wash the dishes" used in class. They may also distribute chemicals among the students. Mr. Bradshaw's assistants act as guides in the planetarium, as well as make out schedules for classes here and from other schools who want to visit the planetarium.

The typewriting and stenography assistants do work for many besides the particular teachers they assist. They often type letters, cut stencils, and mimeograph stenciled materials.

Busy teachers appreciate the work done by these students who cheerfully perform their numerous tasks.

The members of the Science Club divided into five groups to study different phases of science—astronomy, chemistry, zoology, photography, and electronics. Each group was responsible for giving a demonstration at least once a month. The demonstrations presented by the boys and girls concerned their particular phase of the program, varying from sun spots to rockets. Sometimes guest speakers and movies provided part of the program.

One meeting each month was a planning meeting when each of the five groups worked on future programs.

An interesting demonstration was given by David Harrison, who launched two cardboard rockets, one of which climbed approximately 2000 feet and the other, 2500 feet. Later he plans another demonstration in which he will send up a rocket with a hamster inside. He expects the animal to return unharmed.

The officers were Rick Albrecht, president; David Harrison, vice-president; Linda Wiseman, secretary; Martha Warner, treasurer.

The "Journal" Staff, supervised by Mrs. Elnora Pepper, is responsible for the publication of our bi-weekly school paper. Mrs. Janet Brown is the faculty business manager of the paper.

The Parkersburg High School "Journal" is a member of the United High School Press Association. It has received the National Scholastic Press Association All-American Award, the George H. Gallup Award, Quill and Scroll International Honors, Columbia First Class standing, and All-State Honors in West Virginia Competition. This year the "Journal" won first place in the Triple A division of the high-school newspaper contest held at Marshall University.

The staff attended two workshops, one at West Virginia University, and the other at Marshall University, where they studied editorial writing, reporting, advertising, page make-up, and other phases of newspaper work. Addresses by prominent speakers added much to the value of the workshops.

Authorities in different fields of communication appeared before the journalism students. Among these were Mr. James Comstock, editor of the "West Virginia Hillbilly," who spoke to some English classes as well as journalism classes; and Mr. Boz Johnson, a newscaster from television station WSAZ in Charleston, who spoke to the journalism class about the importance of good news media.

Marcettes, a singing group composed of both junior and senior girls, is directed by Mrs. Metz. The club was organized in 1962 for girls who were outstanding members of Marcato and were interested in progressing further in music. This year there are thirty-two girls in the group.

Wearing the pastel checked shirtwaist dresses they have adopted as their Marcette costume, they have made several appearances this winter.

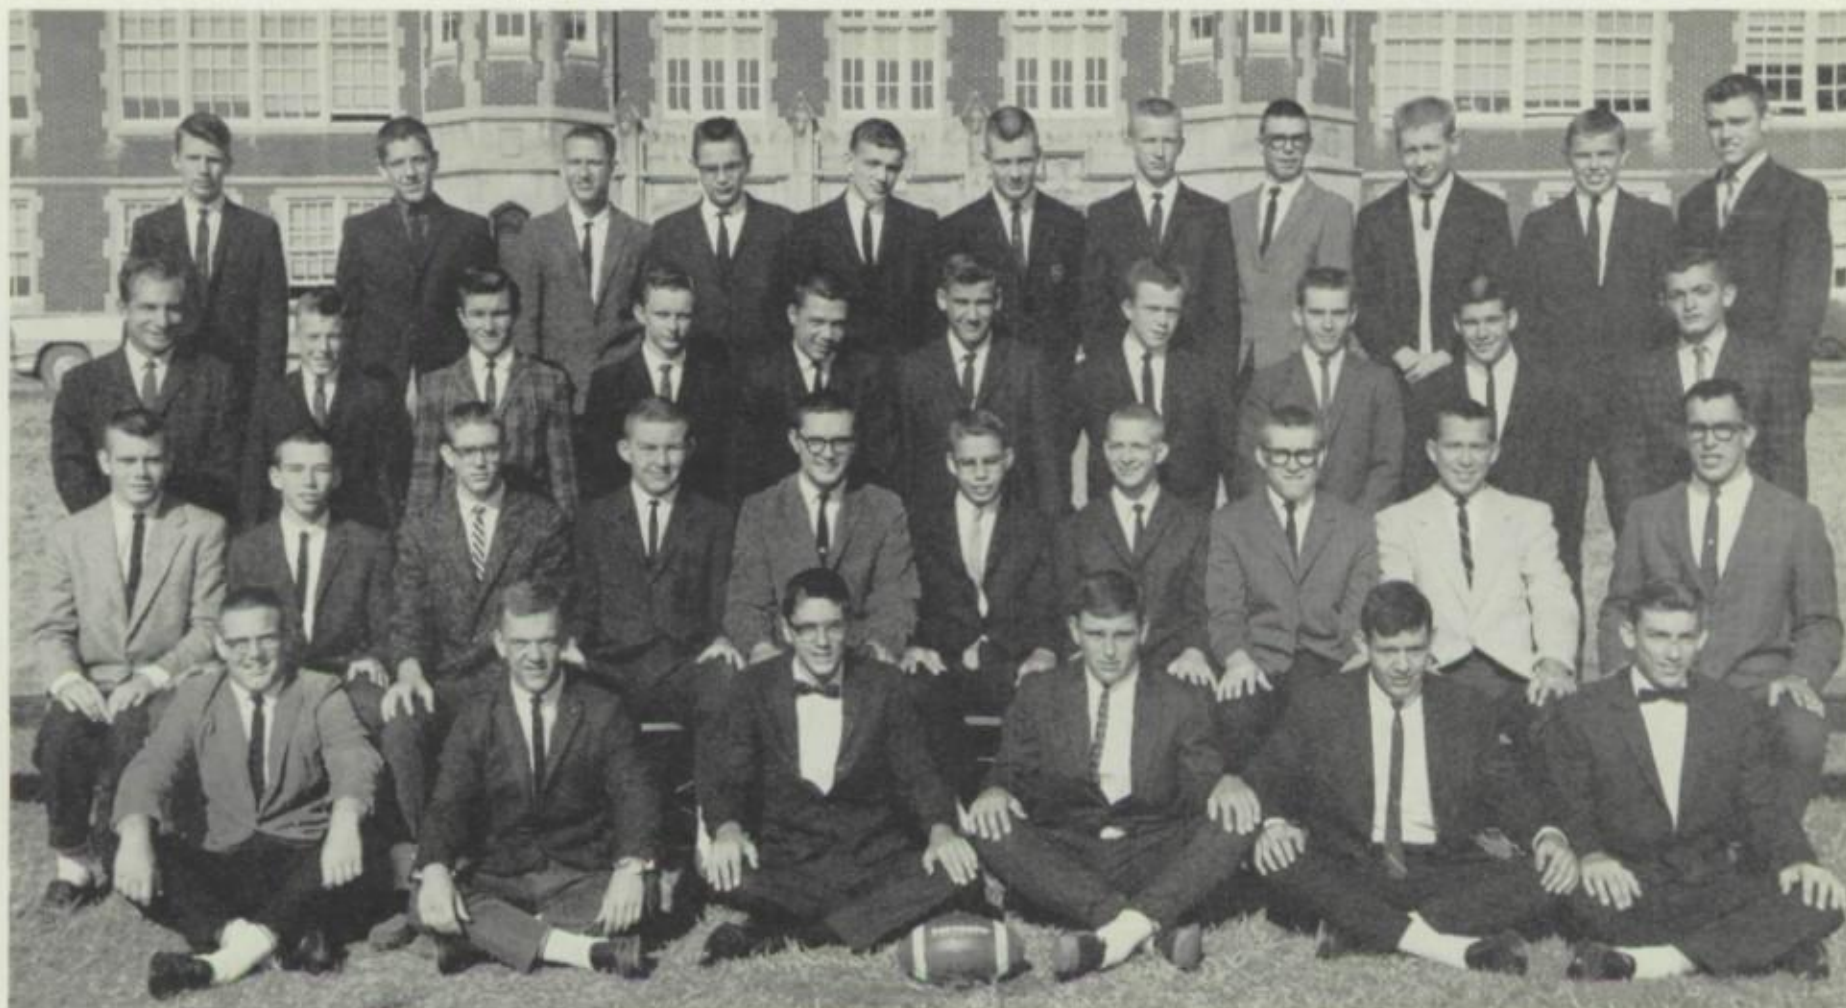

In December, when they sang for the radio program "This Is "P.H.S.," their songs were taped and later played by W.P.A.R. upon several occasions before Christmas.

They sang for the DAR Christmas luncheon and for the sophomore Christmas assembly. Later they sang for the Dental Auxiliary and were planning other appearances before the end of school.

For a style show at the Dils Brothers Department Store, a group of seniors from the organization provided the incidental music.

The members of the Little Red Football Club are also members of the team. The team, which is made up entirely of sophomores, plays the smaller high schools in West Virginia and near-by Ohio as well as the reserve teams of the larger schools.

During their weekly meetings they studied the weaknesses of their future opponents and criticized their own weak spots and errors. Through discussion and practice they hoped to correct their faults.

The Little Red and Big Red Football Clubs combined to watch movies of football and track. At these sessions Coach Parsons spoke about the necessity of keeping physically fit.

Any sophomore may try out for membership in the Sophomore Choir, but he must have Tuesday and Friday fourth periods free for meetings and practice.

The first assignment this year was to prepare for the sophomore Christmas assembly. The music chosen for the assembly was interwoven with the parts of a pantomime entitled "Our Lady's Jug-gler," which is an old French legend written by Selena Royle. The selections sung were "Praise Ye the Lord" by Saint-Saens; "Now the Holy Child Is Born," an old French carol; "Lullaby, Thou Little Tiny Child" by Robert Croo; "Ding Dong—Merrily on High," old French tune arranged by Paul Stevens; "Silent Night" by Mohr and Gruber; "O Come, All Ye Faithful" by Oakeley; "Venite

After Christmas practice began for the Music Festival, in which all music groups in the school participated. It was held on April 24. Besides the numbers they sang with the Festival Chorus, they sang "Concert Epilogue," by Cooper; "Off the Road," by Harry R. Wilson; and "The Deaf Woman's Courtship," American folk song arranged by Harry R. Wilson.

United Nations Club

Members of this club studied the work of the United Nations to learn its functions and to understand how it takes part in world affairs. Each week they discussed world trouble spots and the policies of the United Nations in regard to them. Other club activities included presenting a display in the showcase during United Nations Week, and studying for the United Nations test, which was to be given in the spring. The two members making the highest scores will attend the West Virginia United Nations Conference in Charleston.

Period Movie Operators, directed by Mr. Johnston, are available every period of the day. They operate the audio-visual equipment, transfer machines and screens from room to room, assist with previewing films and filmstrips, and maintain the projectors and screens. To be qualified for this service they must have had previous experience in other schools and a successful year of practice in the Movie Operators' Club. The audio-visual program is supervised by Miss Hiehle, chairman of the Audio-Visual Committee, who orders audio-visual aids, plans schedules, and heads the in-service training workshops for the faculty. James Smith, the chief operator this year, has had six years of experience.

Mathematics Club

The sole purpose of the members of the Mathematics Club was to further their knowledge of the subject. Each member chose a topic to study, which he would later present before the club. Besides discussing topics pertaining to mathematics, they performed mathematical experiments. The experiments were so planned that each member could take part. One of the most fascinating and tedious to perform was the folding of paper to form various curves.

The 1963 sessions of Rhododendron Girls State and Mountaineer Boys State, held last summer at Jackson's Mill, were unique owing to their celebration of West Virginia's 100th birthday. (West Virginia became a state June 20, 1863.) The first part of the week the delegates were divided into two enthusiastic political parties. Campaign speeches, party parades, and the ceremonies inaugurating the state officials were highlights of an unforgettable week. Through their participation, the students increased their knowledge of government. Delicious food, served in abundant quantities, gave them energy for swimming and for playing volleyball and softball.

Discussions concerning fashion accessories, hair styles, personal hygiene and posture, and dating made the meetings of Emily Post Club 219 exciting hours to look forward to.

Hair stylists from the Pink Lady Beauty Salon and Cox's Beauty Salon visited two of their meetings and gave the girls useful ideas about styling and caring for their hair as well as tips about all make-up.

At another meeting, Miss Patricia Hartleben told about the charm school she had attended and gave those girls who are interested in modeling an insight into the profession.

As might be suspected, dating was a favorite topic and, it seemed, was the cause of their greatest problems. Reports were made on the subject, and then different phases were discussed by the entire group.

The officers were Patti Rush, president; Edith Kiddy, secretary-treasurer.

The programs of the Junior-Senior Speech Club were centered around one main objective — to help the members gain confidence in themselves when speaking before an audience.

This was done through several types of programs. Two of the most interesting were television demonstrations and radio shows.

Some sessions of the club were devoted to individual student participation. This included extemporaneous speaking, interpretation of prose selections, and listening to their voices which had been recorded on tapes as they talked.

Their participation in the activities of the club prepared the members to be able to express themselves more fluently and easily whether in class or at the meetings that are a part of everyone's life.

The officers were Mike Duskey, president; Gil Stiles, vice-president; and Mike Allman, secretary-treasurer. Student sponsors were Steve Gottlieb, John Dudley, Richard Adams, Ed Staats, and Phil Rymer.

Through their many activities, the members of the Girls' Athletic Association strive to achieve further development in the four objectives of the organization: scholarship, leadership, character, and service.

Playdays are among the most popular activities of the club. The first one this year was "Nutty November," held for the junior high schools. In March a "Get Acquainted" playday was given for prospective club members. The last one of the year was given by the juniors to honor the seniors, who would soon graduate. Other state high schools were also honored at this time. The G.A.A. is invited to playdays at other high schools and colleges in the region.

Playdays at P.H.S. are held from nine until three o'clock on days when schools are not in session. Some time previous to the day, invitations are sent to junior high schools inviting girls selected by their physical education teachers. At P.H.S. they compete on teams formed after they reach the school — basketball, volleyball, dodgeball, softball, cageball, relays being some of the events. The G.A.A. furnishes a covered dish luncheon, using the theme of the day in the decorations. At the end of the day the girl and the team totaling the most points receive an award.

Besides the regular club period on Thursday, G.A.A. meets Tuesday and Thursday at noon for games, many of which are played against the Sophomore and Junior Sports Clubs.

In January, G.A.A. presented its annual assembly for the sophomore girls, "G.A.A. and Yesterday." The purpose of the assembly was to acquaint the girls with the activities of the club.

Other G.A.A. activities included participation in Monday night games at the City Park pavilion and Saturday bowling leagues.

Under the direction of their sponsor, Miss Ingle, the organization took an active part in various Sports Carnival activities, the P.H.S. Revue, The Journal Show, and the Color Day program.

Little Red Basketball Club

Sometimes the members of the Little Red Basketball Club watched movies from which they learned many procedures used in the game. Before the season began, they discussed the rules of the game. After they began playing, at their meetings they discussed the previous games and prepared for future contests. When the season ended, they started preparing for the next year by practicing basketball skills in which they were weak. Participation in this club helps prepare a player for a possible place on the Big Red team.

Entre Nous is an honorary book club for girls who like to read and want to share their enjoyment of reading with others. "Of Human Bondage," reviewed by Carolyn Golding, "The Prophet," "Death Comes for the Archbishop," and "Looking Backward" were among the books read. In January Mrs. Merrill reviewed "A Doll's House" and in May Miss Edmondson presented some of Millay's poetry. During Book Week, the girls reviewed books for the English classes here and in February, for the English classes at Vandevender Junior High School. The annual Christmas banquet was particularly enjoyable because many past club members were present.

The officers were Merle Irvin, president; Betty White, vice-president; Gail Schneider, secretary; Lissa Callahan, treasurer.

Junior Academy of Science

The students in the Junior Academy of Science, directed by Mr. Boyles, learn more about different fields of science. The membership was divided into committees, which worked on projects to be presented in club meetings. There were science, electronics, biology, and mathematics. The members performed experiments in chemistry and physics and had movies on related subjects.

Many students have little time to read merely for enjoyment, but such was not the case for members of the Girls' Book Club. They had the opportunity to read interesting and informative books which were chosen by Miss Davis, the sponsor. Each week Miss Davis briefly reviewed the books to be read before the members chose what they wanted to read the following week. After each girl had finished reading her book, she entered the title and her opinion of it on her individual re- port sheet.

The officers were Kitty Pennybacker, president; Shirley Bennett, treasurer.

Led by the members of the Gymnastics Team, the boys in this club practiced and taught other boys the fundamentals of gymnastic performance. It was hoped that the club would produce new members for the team.

The boys worked very hard to perfect their skills in free exercise and on the side horse, the parallel bars, the still rings, and the horizontal bar. They practiced tumbling and worked on the trampoline.

Much time was devoted to rehearsing for the Sports Carnival, in which they will take part. Some of the skills are co-ordinated to the exact second. One of the most exciting performances they give is the ladder stand. Two ladders are supported by a few members of the group and other boys do hand stands from the sides of the ladders. This is climaxed by a member's climbing to the top of the ladder to perform a hand stand. Ed Cross and Dan Deem are the co-captains.

Boys join the Official's Club to learn as much as possible about the rules and regulations of school sports. They have a general discussion with Mr. Joe Renforth, a local Sports official, as their leader. They try to answer questions themselves, but sometimes they are forced to refer to the rule book. Mr. Renforth explains the more technical rules.

Membership in this club can be rewarding in more ways than one. The boys often officiate at grade and junior high school games, and are sometimes paid a small sum for their services.

One of the main topics of discussion is the officiating of the Big Red games. Sometimes the discussions end in quite an argument. Usually the decisions of the referees are given a thorough analysis.

When members want to take a break from the usual club procedure, they play football or basketball.

Many of these girls who are later members of Marcato Glee Club and the A Cappella Choir begin their work in high-school music in Dolce Glee Club. The purpose of the club is to provide the opportunity for sophomore girls to learn good music and to sing in a large glee club of girls. At the beginning of the year, the girls tried out for the club, and members were chosen by Mrs.

"In These Delightful Pleasant Groves," by Purcell, and "Adoramus Te, Christe," by Palestrina, were the numbers presented by Dolce Glee Club in their appearance at the Music Festival. These were sung with the Marcato Glee Club.

Chess Club 221

When Chess Club 221 meets with Mrs. Schroeder each Thursday, fourth period, each boy picks a victim or aims his sights on a more advanced player to be his partner for an hour of chess. During the year a tournament is held among the membership to determine the best player. Then a tournament is held between the two chess clubs in the school. The representative of each club is presumed to be his club's most skillful player. The winner of the big contest is, then, the best chessman in the school. The student sponsors were Gary Archer and Terry Deem.

According to Mrs. Goudy, the sponsor, playing Scrabble "enriches the vocabulary and improves the spelling." The girls spend their club periods playing Scrabble in groups of three to five, using a dictionary to challenge or verify word choices and spelling. As the members practiced and improved, plans were made for an interclub tournament in the spring. Tournament play was to include both team and single matches.

Typewriting Club 231

Typewriting Club 231 gives thirty girls who do not own a typewriter an opportunity to learn advanced skills and to secure more speed and accuracy in their typewriting. The members decorated the bulletin board with their work using holidays and the seasons as their themes. For example, they typed masks at Halloween and poems for Thanksgiving. They learned to cut stencils and how to operate the mimeograph. All members of the club feel that this activity has been very helpful.

Almost all the members of the Big Red Basketball Club are members of the team. During club periods they discussed the scouting reports for their up coming games. They also talked about the weaknesses of their opponents and their own mistakes made in the last game. Watching films of games already played, the boys had a chance to see some of the state's best teams in action. Coach Mandich diagrammed plays and defenses on the blackboard for the boys to study. He insisted that the players keep up their scholastic averages.

Sophomore Dramatics Club 207 believes that drama — from the Greek meaning "to do or act" — is the form of art closest to the people.

At the beginning of each meeting, an assigned member gave a report concerning either the history of the theater or some phase of acting. It is in this manner that the student sponsors, Pam Wilson and Lonna King, hoped to give each member more than a knowledge of just the modern theater.

The students planned each meeting a week ahead of time. The programs included monologues, pantomimes, and sometimes original skits. Often costumes and music were used to create a mood.

The play, "Hi Jinks at Hollister," by Marea Lambert Gally, was chosen to be used for their presentation to the other dramatics clubs. Even though all did not have a role in the play, each member gained much from his experience in costuming, make-up, or staging.

The officers were Sue Saunders, president; Sandy Collins, vice-president; Patricia Marks, secretary-treasurer.

Vivace Glee Club, composed of junior and senior boys who enjoy singing, gives its members an opportunity to do just that.

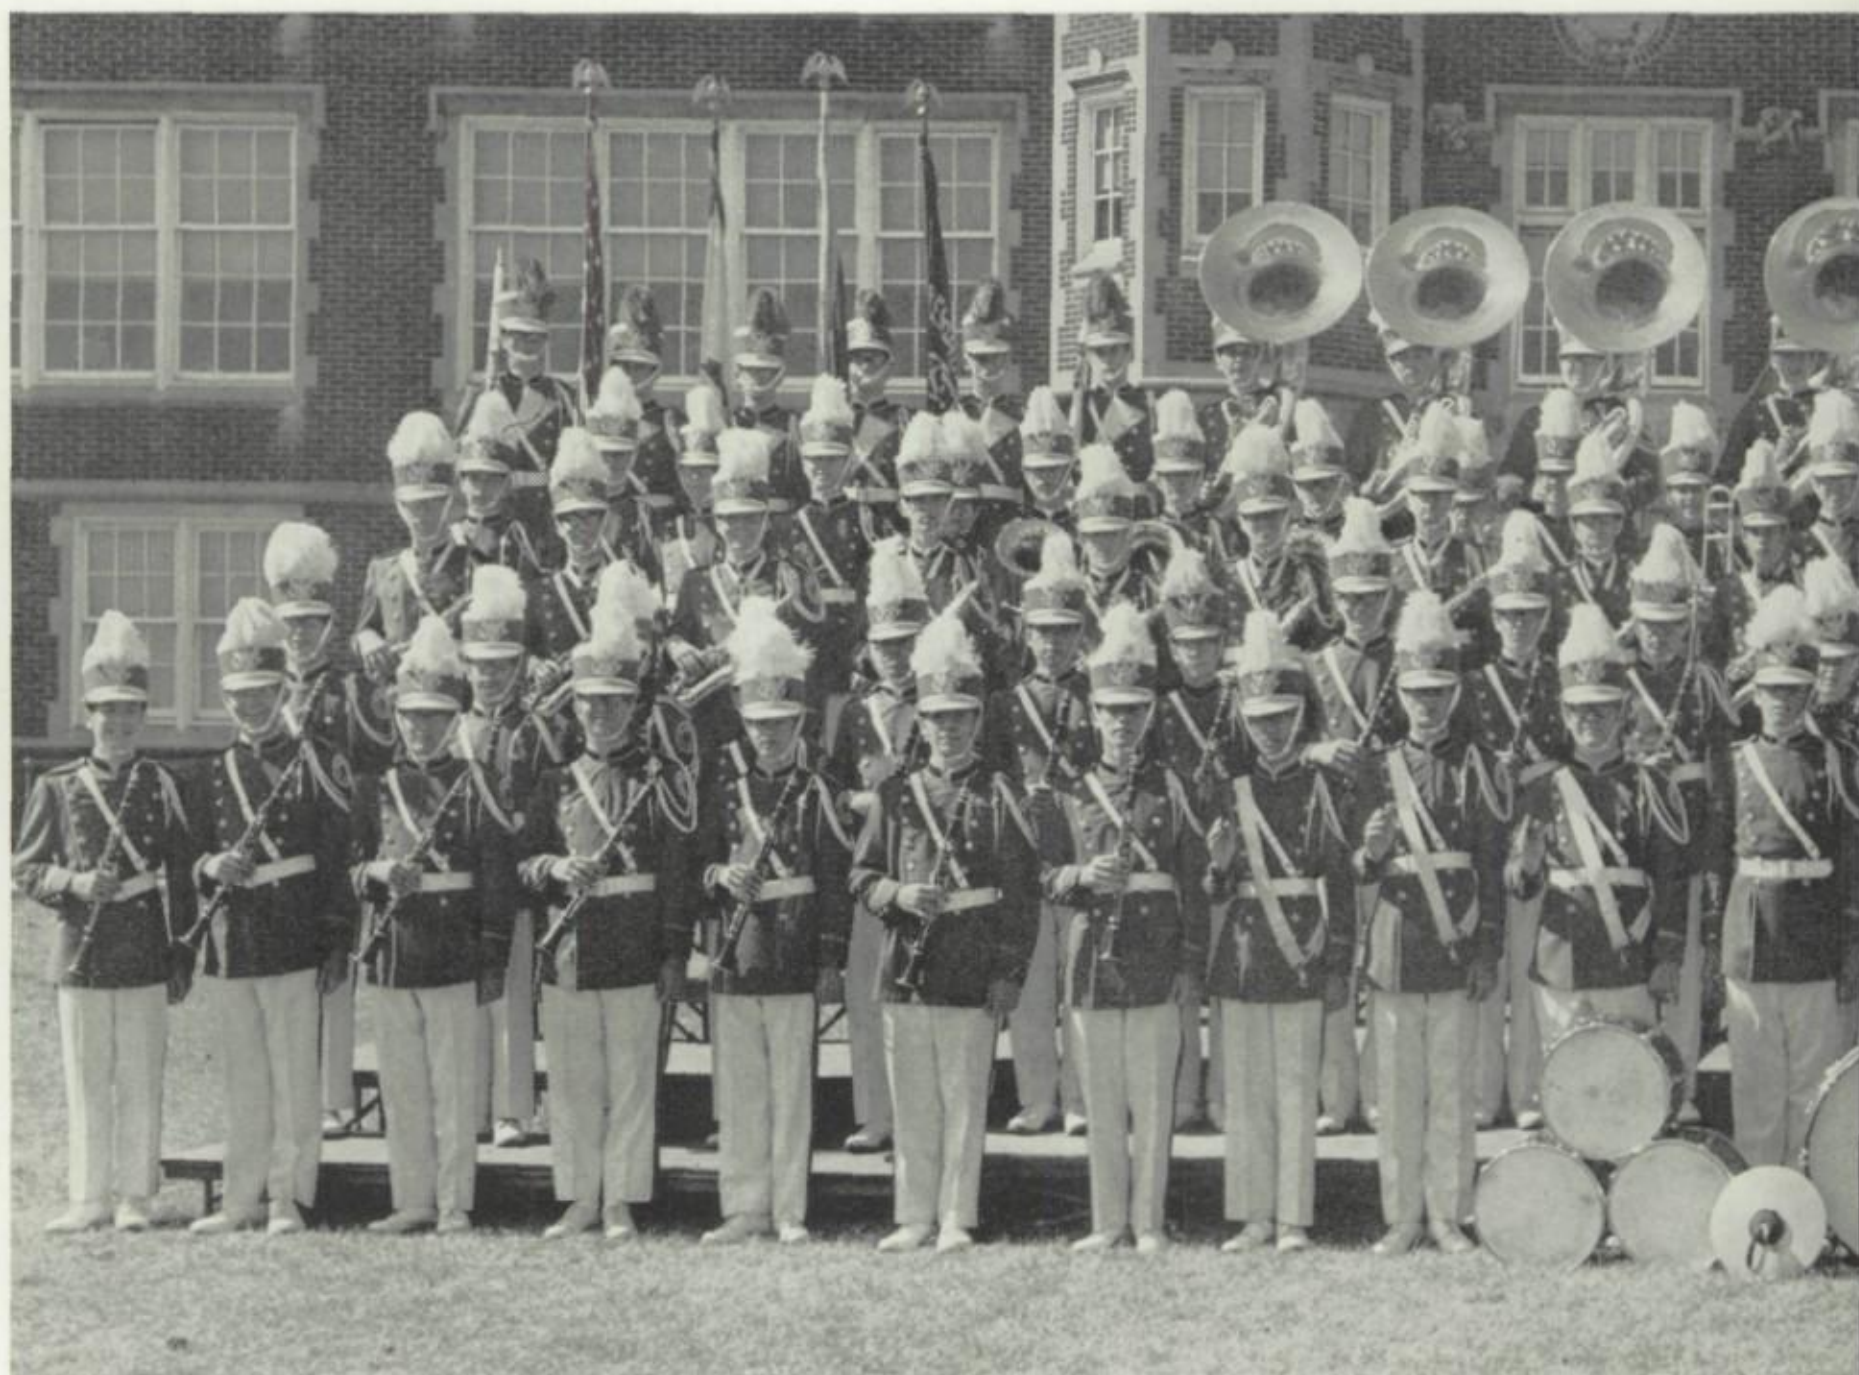

The boys in Vivace are a lively and spirited group who seem to get the most out of everything they sing. Many of the songs they learn and practice are new to them, and all prove highly enjoyable and entertaining.

Vivace took part in the Music Festival in the spring, and at different times during the year sang in the Wood County Boys' Chorus, of which they are a part. With the Chorus they sang at several meetings including that held in Brotherhood Week and teachers' meetings. Their repertoire included "God Is My Salvation," "Rolling Hills," "Dry Bones," "Scarlet Ribbons," "This Land Is Your Land," "Battle Hymn," "Marching to Pretoria," and "Voice of Freedom."

Any junior or senior boy who is interested in music and enjoys singing is eligible to membership in Vivace.

One of the busiest and most impressive organizations at P.H.S. is the Big Red Band. This group of boys, under the direction of Mr. Schroeder, takes part in nearly all activities of the school.

This year, clad in the sparkling new uniforms purchased last spring, the band participated in Centennial activities, playing for both the Centennial Pageant at the City Park and the celebration of Statehood Day, June 20. They played for other community events, such as the Little League play-off meeting in August, as well as for regular school programs.

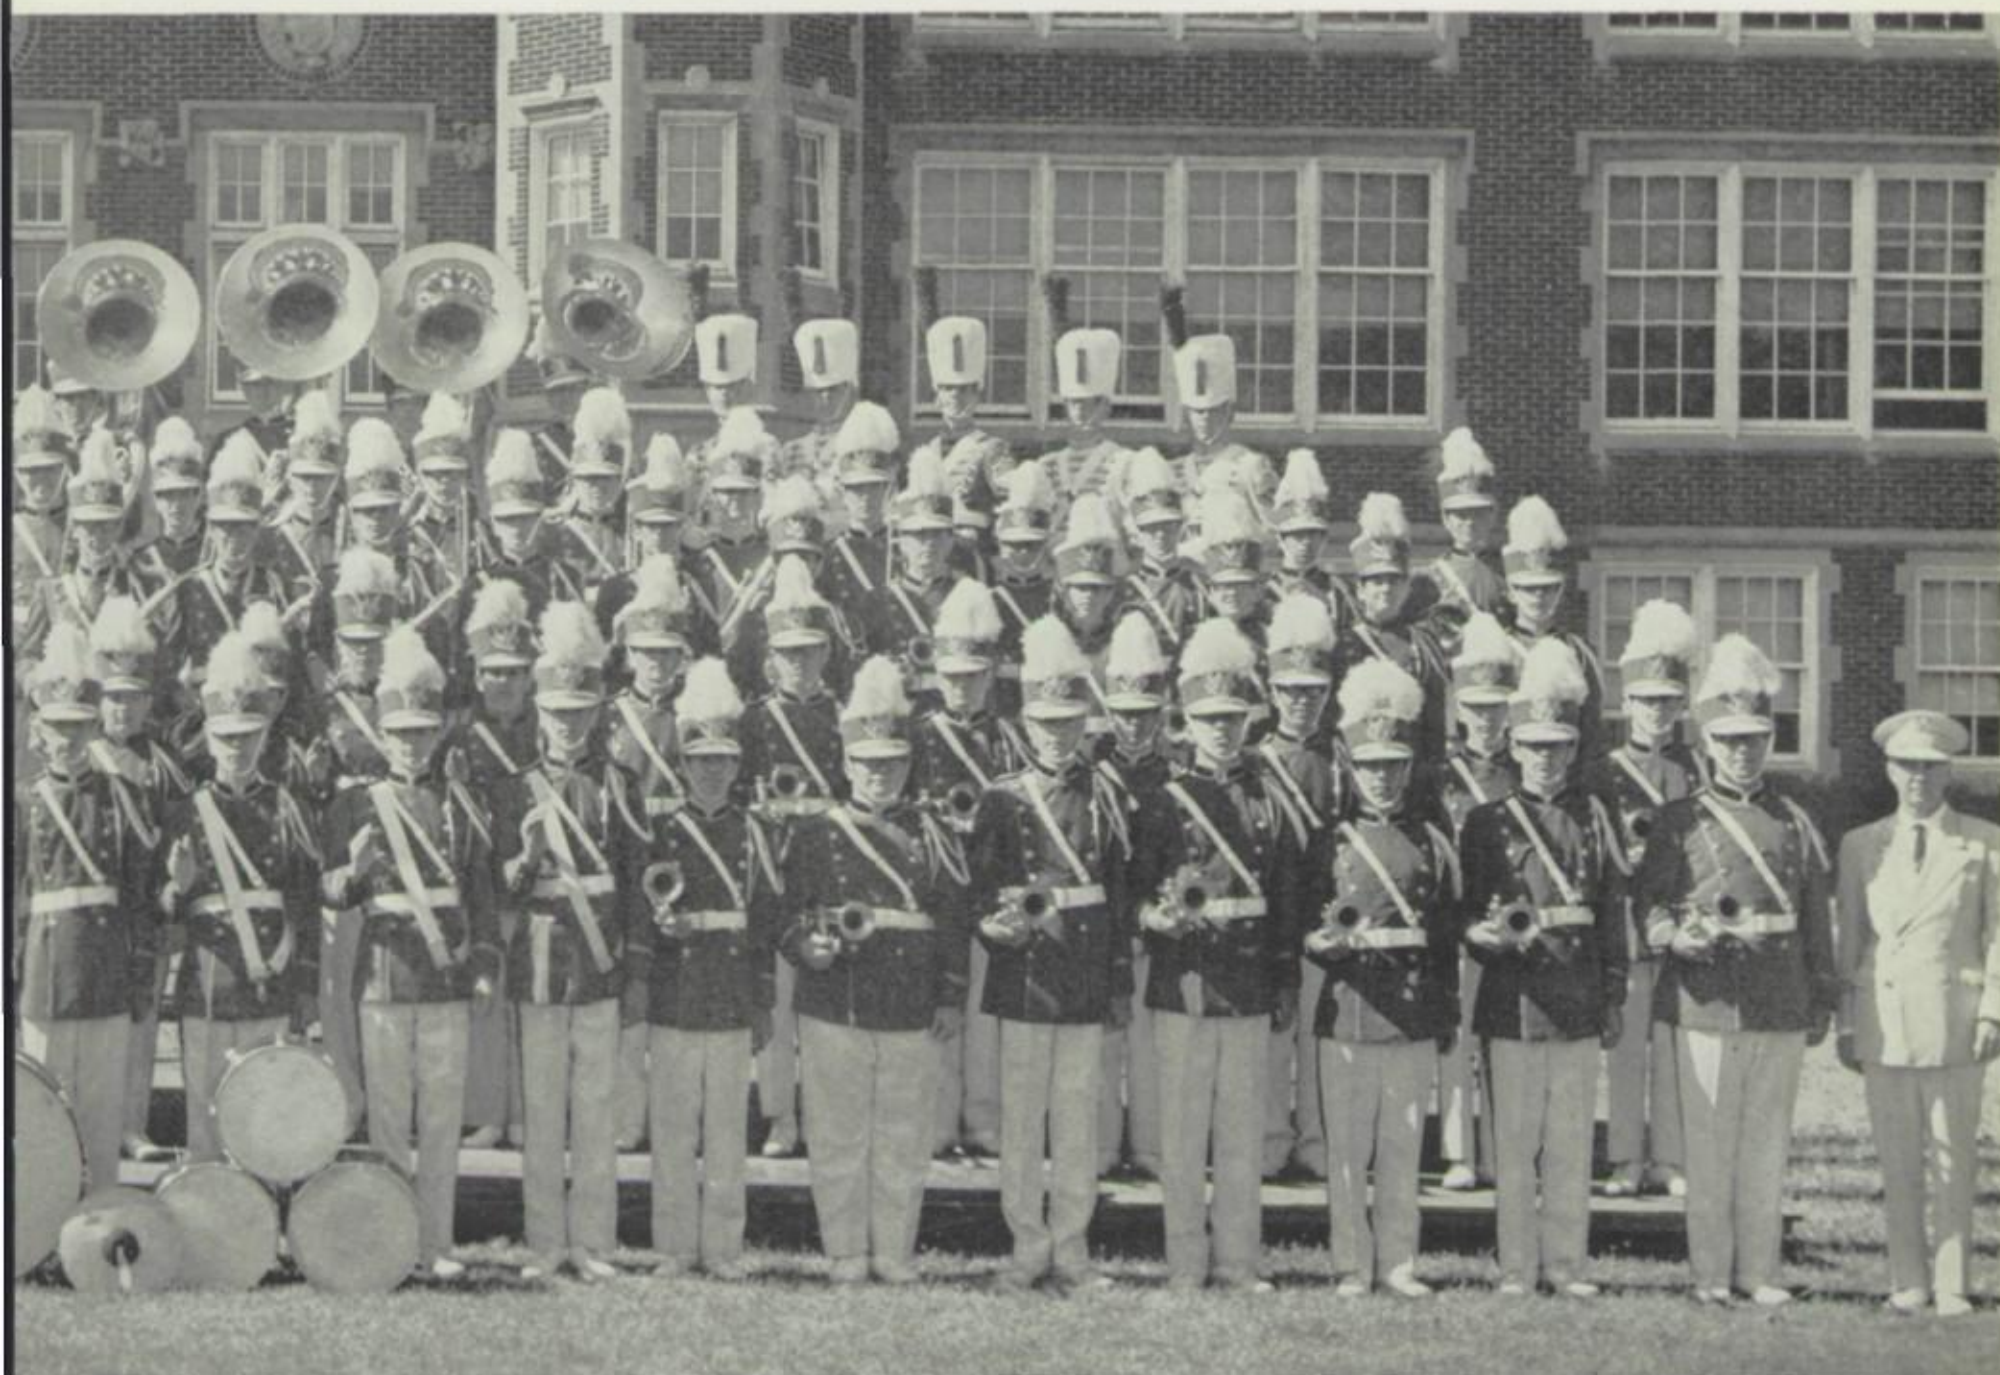

The band began practicing in June in the band room, learning new music and reviewing old numbers. Then, in August, they began marching practice, attracting everyone within range.

During football season they continued the Centennial theme by carrying a Centennial flag in the Color Guard, and by placing smaller flags around the top of the stadium. They played at all the football games, entertaining the fans during half-time with thrilling marches and precision drills.

Seven members of the band played in the All-State Band, which performed during the State Music Educators' Meeting April 9-11. On April 12 and 13 the entire band played for the Junior Chamber of Commerce Industry Exhibit.

On April 22 they presented an assembly in the field house for the student body. Numbers for this occasion included "Bandology," by Eric Osterling; "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise," arranged by Harry L. Alford; "Parade of the Charioteers," by Miklos Rozsa; "Aguero," by Jose France; "My Hero," arranged by Harry L. Alford; "Wag-gery for Woodwinds," by Harold L. Walters; "The Nutmeggers," by Eric Osterling; and "Band of America March," by Paul Lavelle.

The next night, April 24, they played for the Music Festival. Besides taking part in the all-Festival numbers, they played "Espana Cani," by Pasqual Marquina; "Dancing Caballero," by Harry Huffnagle; "Overture" to "Rienzi," by Richard Wagner; and "Stars and Stripes Forever," by John Philip Sousa.

For the Sports Carnival in April, the Big Red Ambassadors, the stage band, provided part of the music. The Ambassadors also participated in the Sixth Annual Stage Band Festival at Morris-Harvey College in Charleston.

The Big Red Band Annual Spring Concert was performed this year on May 1. Music played included "The Beautiful Galatea," by Franz von Suppe; "Finale," from the "New World Symphony" by Antonin Dvorak; "On the Trail," by Ferde Grofe; "Barber of Seville," by Gioacchino Rossini; and "Overture" to "Rienzi," by Wagner. Several solos were also presented.

Later in May the spring banquet was held for band members and their parents. This, technically, closed the year, but the band later participated in the Commencement Exercises, at which forty-six seniors made their last appearance with the organization.

Checkers is a game requiring skill, patience, and determination. Before attempting to play this game, a general knowledge of how it is played must be acquired.

At the first of the year, the members of the club played just for practice. But as the year progressed, their minds turned to more serious play, and tournaments were held within the club. After the club champion was determined, he was matched against the champion of Checkers Club 307 to determine the checkers champion of the school. The student sponsors were Ronald Bowersock and Roger Reynolds.

Infirmary Assistants

The Infirmary Assistants aid Mrs. Herdman in caring for sick and injured students and teachers, and in testing ears and eyes. Their duties include administering minor first aid, making beds, taking temperatures, washing utensils, and running any errands necessary. They help fill out permanent health records and take charge of the Infirmary when Mrs. Herdman is out. Special Student Assistants

Students who assist Mr. McDowell, Mrs. Church, Mrs. Clark, and Miss Frame must be competent, and alert at all times. The majority of their services are generally the same: taking telephone messages, typing, filing, taking pass slips to classrooms, and obtaining information from other offices and teachers. Mrs. Church's assistants have one duty. They work in the supply booth on the second floor where school supplies are sold. Miss Frame's assistant is very special because he served as a bank messenger and errand boy for her office.

The Whittle and Carve Club is a group of boys who enjoy working with a knife and a block of wood. They began the year whittling single objects. A heart and a wedge were the basic figures with which they started.

As the year progressed, they advanced to more difficult work such as stars. The best whittlers learned to carve an arrow and target, a ball in a cage, and a pencil tray.

The officers were Kerry Anthony, president; Jack Vaughn, secretary.

When the amateur chemists of the Chemistry Club met on Thursdays something had to happen as they learned more about their chosen subject through experiments which were not always successful. Each member was responsible for conducting an experiment while another member described what was taking place. The students discussed various problems in chemistry and visited different plants in the area. Two were the Corning Glass Works and the Fenton Art Glass Company, where they learned two different ways glass is made. At another time they visited the Sewage Disposal Plant. The president was Billie Hammett.

The girls who serve as assistants in the Physical Education Department must possess qualities of leadership and good sportsmanship. They are selected by the individual teacher for these characteristics, but also must maintain at least average scholarship and must care for personal appearance.

Each instructor has at least one, sometimes two, assistants per class period. Among the duties assistants assume are assisting in checking the roll according to the point system, leading exercises, and demonstrating dances and games. The girls who serve during the first period must see that the necessary equipment is set up, while those who work the last period are responsible for putting everything away in the proper places.

Much of the work for the Annual Sports Carnival was done by these girls. Not only did they help work out the choreography, but they also helped teach various dances to the physical education classes.

Many of the girls who plan to become physical education instructors gained much valuable first hand experience by serving as assistants in their junior and senior years. Even those who do not plan to go on to college will be better leaders and better able to accept responsibility in whatever they do after graduating from high school.

Library Assistants' Club

When asked the purpose of the club, Mrs. Mc-Kown replied, "To be of service to the school and to interest students in becoming librarians," and Mrs. Elliot and Mrs. Lay agreed.

The assistants, with different jobs in the various parts of the library, meet in their designated rooms and carry on their duties. Some meet in the Browsing Room to discuss books they have read and enjoyed. Others meet in the Reference Room and check on the arrangement of back-issue magazines, while those scheduled for the Reading Room shelves and straighten the books there.

Demonstrations were given throughout the year through which students were shown how to mend books and how to perform other library techniques.

The club is part of the West Virginia Student Library Assistants Association, which is a state library organization. Steve Rader, a senior and president of the club, attended the convention held at Cedar Lakes in October. During the meeting he was elected president of the state organization.

The club members enjoy their work and at the same time perform a valuable and necessary job for the school.

To gain self-confidence and to improve their speech, poise, and method of presentation were the major aims of the members of Dramatics Club 330.

The first part of the year they spent studying the history of drama and the well-known dramatists and actors up to modern times. They also read many popular plays.

Tryouts were held January 9 for "She Loves Him, Yes," a one-act play to be performed near the middle of April for the other dramatics clubs.

Many club periods were enjoyably spent doing improvisations and prepared monologues.

The club gives the theater-minded student a chance to learn, as well as express himself, through participation in projects concerning the dramatic arts.

Brie Vande Weghe and Logan Hovis were the student sponsors of the club. The officers were Sharon Phillips, president; Ken Little, vice-president; Dave Boyer, secretary; Ann Akers, treasurer.

The primary purpose of the Orchestra is to acquaint the members with the best in music culture and education. Under the direction of Mr. Gelber, the organization encourages talented students to keep music in their lives and to derive enjoyment from their talents.

The Orchestra Concert is the high point of the year for the members. This year they invited one hundred orchestra members from the junior high schools to join them in playing "Concertino Piccolo."

Among the numbers the Orchestra played for the Music Festival was "Bacchonole" from "Sampson and Delilah."

The Orchestra is kept busy throughout the year playing for various annual programs. These include the Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter assemblies, the Thespian and Senior plays, and the Senior Class Sermon.

Their agenda for this year included programs for the A. B. Chase Company, the Vienna Music Boosters, the Union Mission, and the Secondary Principals' Association.

For the second consecutive year, the Orchestra was invited to visit the West Virginia University School of Music in Morgantown to present a concert and to assist in a music clinic. On the return trip they gave a performance at Fairmont State College.

Chess is perhaps the most challenging table game, and the members of Club 335 are some of the best players in the school. The club held a tournament between its members to determine the chess champion of 335.

The tournament consisted of five rounds with points being awarded to the winners. The winner received one point and the loser, no points. When a game was tied, each player was awarded one-half a point.

Defending champion Carl Jensen, with a record of five wins and no losses, won the chess championship of Club 335. He scored his five wins against Charles Peck, Robert Benson, Larry Rector, Wayne Andrick, and David Williams. In second place was Tom Patterson with a score of four and one-half wins and one-half a loss. He tied Robert Naylor, and then beat John Burns and Doug Campbell. He took a bye and finished off with a win over Jim Richards.

Williams, Andrick, Peck, Don Prince, Gary Carson, Henry Chaney, and Campbell finished with a four-won and one-lost record to tie for third place. Thirty-seven members participated in the tournament.

At the first of the year new members are initiated at the annual banquet. This year the group sponsored Boz Johnson, WSAZ news director, to speak to journalism students about news writing in the television field. Pep Club, which was newly organized this year, began meeting the second week of school to learn new and old cheers. From their appearance at the first football game of the season, the club has been a great asset in creating enthusiasm among the football and basketball teams and crowds attending the games. The group cheered together at thuses to aid the cheerleaders.

Composed of junior and senior girls and sponsored by Miss Ingle and Mrs. Berolatti, the Pep Club meets once a week after school to practice the cheers taught them by the cheerleaders.

Early in the year, each girl bought two red and white shakers to add color to their cheering section, which is situated in a reserved section on the 50-yard line of the students' side of the stadium.

Near the middle of the football season they organized a card section. Because it was so late in the season, they used only red and white cards and performed at only the Weirton football game, forming "P", "GO", "HI", "W". Next year it is hoped that there will be a larger card section, using different colored cards.

At all our games and thuses this energetic five helped to instill enthusiasm and school spirit into the students and team. They helped the Pep Club to learn cheers and the use of colored cards to form greetings to visiting schools. The squad was chosen at the end of last year after participating in a clinic to learn the techniques of cheerleading.

"Give me a half dozen hot dogs with everything."

"What do you mean chewing gum costs eleven cents?"

Such requests and questions the Concession Stand Workers answered cheerfully.

At the beginning of the year approximately sixty senior boys and twenty senior girls were chosen to take on the job of feeding the thousands of people who attended the football games. Under the direction of Mr. Thorpe, the workers arrived faithfully at six P.M. for each home football game. This enabled them to have time to get everything ready before the crowd arrived. Boys sold cokes, coffee, and candied apples in the stands, while the girls served hot dogs, candy bars, chewing gum, pop corn, and potato chips from the booths. Even though these students saw very little of any football game, all agreed they had fun and gained much from the experience. At the end of the season, the workers held an informal party at the home of Lissa Callahan.

These same workers were also on hand for each home basketball game and for several other special events that were held in the field house this past year. However, not as many workers were needed for this job. In the field house they worked in groups of three or four at each of three concession stands. This year for the first time, the boys were allowed to sell cokes in the bleachers. The workers found this to be a good idea, as many out-of-town visitors to the field house do not know where the booths are located.

The 'unsung heroes' of P.H.S. were chosen on the basis of dependability and loyalty to the school. The results of their efforts helped to pay many of the bills charged to the senior class of 1964.

Senior Play—Harvey

ROW ONE: Patty Kiger, Mary Carolyn Ross, Linda Zimmer, Steve Rader, Eugene Nesbitt, Mary Golding, Janice Milligan, Lonna King, Linda Meadows, Brie Vande Weghe. ROW TWO: Logan Hovis

Bill Monk, Cara Sue Black, Susan Harrah, Donita Pittman, Merle Irvin, Ben Findley, Steve Ulrey, Eddie Ball, Eugene Clayton, Mrs. Merrill.

The seniors chose HARVEY, a three-act comedy by Mary Chase, for their class play.

The action takes place in a city in the Far West in the library of the old Dowd family mansion and in the reception room of Chumley's Rest. The time is the present. The play opens at mid-afternoon on a spring day.

Veta Louise Simmons and her daughter, Myrtle Mae, have gone to live with Mrs. Simmons's brother, Elwood P. Dowd. This arrangement, however, has not worked out to Mrs. Simmons's satisfaction. It seems that she is not able to associate her daughter with the proper society due to Elwood's friendship with an invisible six-foot white rabbit.

After much deliberation, Mrs. Simmons decides to have her brother committed to Chumley's Rest—a mental institution. Thus, through a series of misunderstandings and mistakes, begins the comedy of this play.

Any senior was eligible to try out for a part in the play in March when the following cast was chosen: Myrtle Mae Simmons, Mary Golding and Donita Pittman; Veta Louise Simmons, Janice Milligan and Linda Zimmer; Elwood P. Dowd, Eugene Nesbitt and Stephen Rader; Miss Johnson, Lonna King; Mrs. Ethel Chauvenet, Brie Vande Weghe; Ruth Kelly, R. N., Patty Kiger and Merle Irvin; Duane Wilson, Ben Findley; Lyman Sanderson, M. D., Logan Hovis and Bill Monk; William R. Chumley, M. D., Eugene Clayton; Betty Chumley, Linda Meadows; Judge Omar Gaffney, Stephen Ulrey; E. J. Lofgren, Eddie Ball.

The play was directed by Mrs. Grace-Marie Merrill, with Mary Carolyn Ross serving as student director. Sue Black and Susan Harrah were book holders.

The properties committee was made up of Lonna King—chairman, Donna Leigh Mills, Linda Larch, Bryan Johnson, Barbara Hensley, and Susan Cox.

Composing the make-up committee were Jean Campbell—chairman, Darlene Gotschall, Steve Rule and Karen Haller.
